WET OR DRY, WHICH?

The strangest thing about the Reed support in Pemiscot county is that his strongest henchmen are confined to the "wets," rather than the "soaks." There is no longer a "wet" and "dry" issue in the United States. The Eighteenth amendment to the Constitution has settled that. Just as it settled the slavery question. It is as dead as a door nail. The only "wets" we have now, or ever will have again, are the illicit distiller and bootleggers. Reed says he is against them, but strangely they and some of their sympathizers are for him. But why? That is a mystery to us. Reed has done more than any other man in the United States to make the country dry. Do the wets know that? They are awfully forgetful if they do not. As Reed did more than any other one man to cause the destruction of the Democratic party, we say again that he did more than any other one man to make the United States as dry as the Sahara desert. During the long twelve years Reed has represented Missouri in the United States Senate there is but one bill bearing his name and that is the "Reed Law," known as the "Bone Dry" law. Reed is the author of that bill. He put that over. And think of it, the only bill this man of "great ability" did put over during his entire term of office. The wet people have more cause to remember this law than any other people. It cut their trade almost in half. That law made it a crime to carry a bottle, or any quantity of booze from one State to another. And the Reed law was the real and final stepping stone to the final nation-wide dry law which we now have. Yet the wets are for Reed. It looks like the dries should be the ones to be for him, but as a general thing they are not. But why? It is not because they care for Reed's stand on this issue, since it has been confined to the graveyard but it is because of his stand against Democracy. That is the issue, and the only issue. So far as we know, Long is as wet as Reed, and Reed is as wet as Long, and one is as dry as the other. But Long is not working under the ground like a mole. If Reed is so soaking, after having a record as dry as a powder-house, he is making his promises to the wets in some dark alley—he's not doing it in the open. Those who wish to endorse that sort of a man for the Senate are welcome to do so. All Reed wants is their votes. It is no trouble, once elected, for him to turn traitor. He has considerable experience in that respect.

THE CASE AGAINST WILSON.

Impartial history will record George Washington, Abraham Lincoln and Woodrow Wilson as the outstanding figures in American affairs. All three of them were commanders-in-chief of forces which triumphed on land and sea. All three of them revolutionized the thinking of the world and lifted it by their Christian ideals to higher planes of living. All three of them were models to whom any parent could point his child, because their influence was along lines which made for a noble destiny. All three of them were harassed, persecuted and misrepresented by relentless political foes, and all of them piloted the old ship of state safely into port against the opposition of organized greed and the venom of interests that were out of sympathy with their Government when its very life was at stake. Washington and Lincoln have been vindicated long since, but Missouri Democrats are now confronted with the problem of vindicating or repudiating Wilson and his mighty achievements. And the only argument thus far submitted to Missouri farmers against him is that under his administration Congress made it a felony for anybody to pay them less than $2 a bushel for wheat. Great God!—Monroe County, Mo., Appeal.

Reed apologized for his support of Newberry and George Harvey, repented in "sweat and ashes," as he said, but he has not even excused himself for his mighty effort and successful accomplishment in the destruction of the Democratic party in 1920. He is not even sorry for it. If given the chance he will do it again. Certainly so, if his acts are endorsed by his nomination. A vote for Reed, therefore, is a vote for the destruction of the Democratic party. For our part, we are a Democrat and propose to stand by those who stand by democracy. That is why we have not hesitated to speak out in the senatorial campaign. Before the primary is the time for TRUE Democrats to do their duty.

If Reed wasn't wet before, he certainly was pretty well "soaked" when he escaped from his "friends" at Caruthersville; but anyone knowing the environments would excuse Reed under such circumstances.

Before another issue of this paper will have been printed the primary election will be over and the results known, and while we are neither a prophet nor a son of a prophet, we wish to say that the indications are that Breckinridge Long will win over James Reed by a majority of at least 50,000, and a prospect of as much as 100,000.

There is just one practical way to retire Jim Reed. That is for the Democrats of Missouri in Tuesday's primary to vote for Breckinridge Long, who is abreast of the times on foreign relations, and if elected to the Senate will support all sound movements for prosperity and peace.

In no age of the world has the traitor been exalted. Judas, Benedict Arnold, Aaron Burr, et al., are examples. Why smash this unbroken record because a man is an "orator"? Perhaps the other traitors were "orators," too.

Jim Reed knifed the Democratic party in the back in 1920—slew it—and now, without apology, with the life blood of his party still upon his hands, he comes asking you, by your vote, to endorse that assassination. Will you do it? Can you, after thinking, do it?

A vote for Reed is a vote for H. Johnson, Borah, LaFollette, Lodge, Root, Toot, Smoot et al., the bunch of "sweet smelling" gourd blossoms he has ganged with, and will continue to gang with—IF YOU endorse his record.

Reed is deaf to the vital needs of mankind. He preaches isolation and hatred when the welfare of the people everywhere demand friendship and co-operation among the nations.

Reed was where in 1920? In Wisconsin making speeches for the election of a Republican. Where is he now? In Missouri asking Democrats to endorse his record.

The times have swept past Mr. Reed. He is a back number. Instead of an asset, his presence in the Senate is a costly, menacing liability.

If you believe in the doctrine of distrust, hate and bitterness, vote for Reed. He will not disappoint you.

If you believe the whole Democratic platform and party is wrong and Reed right, you should vote for Reed.

Reed should be retired on the plain grounds of common sense, if nothing else.

C. O. Raine left Wednesday at noon for Syracuse, N. Y., where he goes as a delegate representing Missouri, to attend the National Conference of the National Grange, to be held in that city on Friday and Saturday of this week. It will be the largest and most important, and in some respects the most significant conference of the kind ever held in the United States. Thirty-three States will be represented, and Pemiscot county is very fortunate to have one of her resident citizens one of Missouri's representatives.

THE LAST GUN

The last gun in the Democratic senatorial campaign in Pemiscot county, will be fired at Hayti tonight.

Hon. Francis M. Curlee of St. Louis and Hon. Robert L. Ward of Caruthersville, will speak here tonight in the interest of Breckinridge Long. It will be a rare privilege for the people of Pemiscot county to have the opportunity to hear these two eloquent orators discuss the issues involved in selecting the most available man for the nominee of the Democratic party in the senatorial contest. Francis M. Curlee is a law partner of the well-known Charles M. Hay, and Mr. Ward, "Our Bob," needs no introduction to make him better acquainted with our people. Both of these towering orators have a message for the people which they cannot afford to miss hearing.

The United Farmers of America will be in session here today and tomorrow, and a welcome to all of them is extended. Farmers should be interested in the selection of their United States Senators, for it is the Senate of the United States that does more than any other branch of the Government to advance or retard their prosperity. In coming together in their meetings here the farmers are indeed fortunate to have the opportunity to hear the issues of the day discussed by two of the most eloquent and best posted orators of the State.

Come!

BASE BALL.

In a fast and well played game the Hayti second team defeated the fast Portageville team by the score of 11 to 4, on the local diamond Sunday. Two of the Portageville runs were the results of errors by Martin, who threw low to the third base, and by Gardner, who over threw the same bag. A man was on third each time. Ransburg, Graves and Dorris had a great day with the stick, each one connecting with an extra base blow. Hayti goes to Portageville for the deciding game, each team having won a game each.

HEY, FELLER.

Nowhere ???[??]

Dear Jake:

Us fellers what rite fer the news papers has got to no our stuff cause they can't afford to let any body rite stuff to print, cause the public has got to be plesed. Now, that reminds me of the time when you was in bizness you was about to go bankrupt, cause you wasn't sellin' any thing and cause other people wasn't buyin' and when i was running the joint bizness was much to the mustard, i could plesse 'em and you couldn't.

The other nite i went out to the park and a guy wat was homeless was sleeping on a bench by the monkey cage when all of a sudden a guy in uniform taps him on the feet and says to him, "Hey, guy, if you are gonna sleep out here you've got to get away from this cage." Well, Jake this guy wat was asleep says, "I like to sleep here cause it reminds me of the jail." Whereas the big copper says, "Where'd ye get that stuff?" "Cause, says the bo, "these animals look like a police sergeant." And i just laffed out loud. But the big cop, he didn't think it was so funny and he took the guy to jail fer lofein, and said he would take me if i didn't hush, which i did. But the little feller turned aroun' an' said to me, "That's all rite, the first time i ever seen a cop i laughed out loud too." But i didn't get to say nuthin' cause the cop had done called a parole wagon.

Say Jake, if you're honest that you want to go to yourope this summer, come up here first then you will pre-shate yourope better.

The champion long distance wind jammer here is a barber. I was in the shop the other nite and a guy come in wat was in an awful rash and said, "I want a shave." Well, this barber he commenced to shave and talk. When he got about 15 words ahead of the razor strokes i noticed that the bird was aslepe, but the barber talked right on. He told this guy who would win the world series; said the Browns didn't have no chance cause the guy wat owned them would get sick and they wouldn't have no manager. He said Philadelphia would beat st louis cause it was a bigger town. Then he told who would win all the important prize fits and horse races, he said

KING-MYRICK.

The friends of Miss Irene Myrick are surprised to learn that she was married July 11 to Mr. Merle King of 557 Summit Ave., Memphis, Tenn. The marriage occurred at Marion, Arkansas.

Mrs. King is the accomplished daughter of Mrs. Myrick of the Commercial Hotel, this city, and she is at present visiting the family of her mother in this city. Mr. King will join her and spend the week end here. The young couple will make their home in Memphis, Mr. King being a machinist and engaged in business there. The Missouri Herald joins the many friends in extending congratulations.

Deputy Sheriff J. A. Johnson of Caruthersville attended to official business in Hayti Wednesday afternoon. He had only just returned from Jefferson City, where he went to carry three prisoners, the turn-out of this session of Circuit Court. There were one white man and two negroes. The white man was Poley Rickman, the highwayman, who recently held up and robbed night clerk Sam Owens, at the Mitchell Hotel. For such a crime he escaped exceedingly light, and as numerous as are these sort of crimes such a sentence is but little more than encouragement to the criminality inclined. Juries have a serious duty to perform, and they should perform it. In connection with these remarks, we wish to state that Mr. Johnson is making a fine record as a deputy sheriff. He is a hard worker, and goes about his duties in a sincere and firm manner. The editor of this paper has known him since he was quite a boy, and is glad to see him winning the favor of the public to such a great extent.
